Morning

Intro

Welcome to the practice of the Daily Office. How might our days be grounded more deeply in God's presence if we pause each morning, mid-day, and evening for silence, scripture, and prayer? This time of year, we talk a lot about freedom, but it is important that we understand freedom in Christ is very different from political freedom.

Political freedom is liberty from oppression. It is freedom from outside constraints on a person's autonomy and ability to act in one's own best interests. Political freedom is good; it is important. However, freedom in Christ is not dependent on one's political circumstances. Boston University professor, Marina McCoy, writes, freedom in Christ "is the capacity to let go of what doesn't help me to love God or love others—while staying engaged with what does."

In this series, we are reflecting on scripture's teaching about freedom in Christ and engaging prayers to help us live in freedom with the Lord.

Silence

Let's begin in silence.

Take a deep breath.

Remember, right now, you are in God's loving presence. However you are beginning this day, whatever emotions you are feeling, the Lord is with you. Psalm 139 says there is no where we can go to escape God's loving presence.

Take another deep breath. God is closer than the air we breathe.

Take two minutes of silence to rest in the presence of the Lord.

Scripture

Now I invite you to read the word of God from the book of Hebrews. Remember freedom in Christ is being free from the entanglements that keep us from dedicating our whole selves to following Jesus. As you read, pay attention to what stands out. What might the Lord be saying to you personally in this text today?

Therefore, since we are surrounded by such a huge crowd of witnesses to the life of faith, let us strip off every weight that slows us down, especially the sin that so easily trips us up. And let us run with endurance the race God has set before us. We do this by keeping our eyes on Jesus, the champion who initiates and perfects our faith. Because of the joy awaiting him, he endured the cross, disregarding its shame. Now he is seated in the place of honor beside God's throne. Think of all the hostility he endured from sinful people; then you won't become weary and give up. After all, you have not yet given your lives in your struggle against sin.

Read this passage again. Is there a word or a phrase that stands out? What part of the text is the Holy Spirit shining a light on for you today?

Therefore, since we are surrounded by such a huge crowd of witnesses to the life of faith, let us strip off every weight that slows us down, especially the sin that so easily trips us up. And let us run with endurance the race God has set before us. We do this by keeping our eyes on Jesus, the champion who initiates and perfects our faith. Because of the joy awaiting him, he endured the cross, disregarding its shame. Now he is seated in the place of honor beside God's throne. Think of all the hostility he endured from sinful people; then you won't become weary and give up. After all, you have not yet given your lives in your struggle against sin.

Take a moment now and consider what the Lord is calling to your attention. What is God saying to you today? Take a moment, and have a conversation with the Lord.

Read the passage one final time. Let go of any desire to get anything out of this passage. Simply allow yourself to soak in this word from the Lord.

Mid-day

Silence

We pause now in mid-day. How has your day been unfolding? Where have you noticed yourself living in freedom? Where have you found yourself entangled, held back from loving God and your neighbor by some attachment? Let us begin our mid-day prayer in silence. Take a deep breath. Remembering what Paul says, "In God we live and move and have our being."

Take another deep breath.

Take two minutes of silence to rest in the presence of the Lord.

Prayer

Would you now join me in this prayer written by Malcolm Guite?

Thine is the Kingdom
The kingdom and the power and the glory,
The very things we all want for ourselves!
We want to be the hero of the story
And leave the others on their dusty shelves.
How subtly we seek to keep the kingdom,
How brutally we hold on to the power,
Our glory always means another's thralldom,
But still we strut and fret our little hour.

What might it mean to let it go forever,
To die to all that desperate desire,
To give the glory wholly to another,
Throw all we hold into that holy fire?
A wrenching loss and then a sudden freedom
In given glories and a hidden kingdom.
Amen.

Evening
Silence

Tonight, we pause one more time to consider the gift of the Lord's freedom in the loving presence of God.

Take a deep breath. In Matthew 28, Jesus promised, "surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age."

Take another deep breath.

Take two minutes of silence to rest in the presence of the Lord.

Prayer

Will you join me now in a reflective prayer modeled on a prayer written by retreat director and spiritual director, Andy Otto?

What holds you captive? What are some spaces in your life where you experience a distinct lack of freedom? Is it a pressure you place on yourself, or a pressure someone else has laid on you? Maybe there is an unhealthy relationship, or an unhelpful desire. Perhaps some material thing has a hold on you, or is it a pattern of sin? Where do you lack freedom?

God gives many good gifts, but sometimes become so attached to these gifts that they hold us back from the Lord. Have any good gifts become a space of unfreedom for you?

Freedom in Christ does not come without struggle. Are you willing to surrender comfort and move through pain and difficulty in the presence and power of Christ?

What have you noticed in this time of reflection? What is God revealing to you? Take a moment now and have a conversation with the Lord.

Will you join me now in this prayer of surrender written by Ignatius of Loyola?

Take, Lord, and receive all my liberty,
my memory, my understanding,
and my entire will,
All I have and call my own.
You have given all to me.
To you, Lord, I return it.
Everything is yours; do with it what you will.
Give me only your love and your grace,
that is enough for me.

Amen
